Read the passage and choose the best answer to each question:

Most students have the history of struggling with mathematics assignments which make them wonder if they will ever apply the knowledge in real world life. Teachers and parents admit having been asked about the relevance of mathematics in life. Some often respond that mathematics is necessary for most of the jobs and it enhances critical thinking skills of an individual. Such responses may be good but fail to address immediate needs of a student. There are various everyday practical applications of mathematics.

The most common and essential application of mathematics in daily life is in financial management like spending, investing and saving. The modern world is money-driven and therefore, demands knowledge in mathematics to help in various calculations. Inability to add, subtract, multiply or divide will result in serious difficulties when handling money. One requires mathematical skills beyond the basic arithmetic concepts because complex algebra is necessary when calculating interest rates for loans and investments. Even those who manage their own money will often require dealing with loans and investment. Besides, one should be familiar with exponential growth calculations to plan for future projections especially in spending of money. Mathematics concepts are very significant in the management of time. Time factor affects everyone around the world.

Time is, therefore, a very valuable asset that cannot be ignored. The modern competitive world demands very proper planning of time to avoid lagging behind as others make progress. Failing to keep schedule results in accumulation of things not done in the required time frame. Mathematics comes into play when organizing to-do lists where the rating of tasks varies depending on the priority and urgency. Organizing a schedule is, therefore, beyond the simple knowledge of reading the clock or calendar; more application of mathematics is necessary.
